

First playtester my friend Violet who gave me several pointers on weaker text and grammatical errors which I endeavored to correct

Second playtesting was another friend of mine who remarked on the style and the abstraction being interesting and playing to the format. Critiqued that in the beginning some more visual panache could be used so I gave it a little flare to help with early investment. Especially since on loops that side will be explored so often.

Jummy's playtesting

This is what I got and while it doesn't inform much to me it felt really good to hear that it could resonate that strongly and that it was interesting enough for replays!!!!